

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An independently powered slots architecture for use in telecom/datacom systems, the architecture including the capability to support at least one power module, and may include a manager module, a storage module, an alarm module, a console module, and a cooling module. Method for using same also disclosed.